OUR COVID-19 RESPONSE

Through our Emergency Recovery Fund, we are providing much needed grant funding to agencies on the front lines of this crisis. By helping local nonprofits meet increasing demands, adapt their services to accommodate social distancing requirements, and keep their vital programs going, we are making sure Whatcom County stays as safe and healthy as possible.
COVID-19 has been hard on our businesses, families, and communities. United Way grants are helping a network of nonprofits on the front lines working to keep Whatcom County as safe and healthy as possible.

Emergency Recovery Fund grants support a variety of services to help address these issues and more.

When our community is facing challenges, United Way is here.

In addition to providing much needed relief dollars to help agencies keep their programs running, our emergency grants make sure critical services continue to be available throughout Whatcom County.

Emergency grants have helped with:
- food distribution
- health care and PPE
- emergency housing support
- youth mental health services
- child care for essential workers
- domestic violence prevention

...and so much more.

Together, we’re helping our friends and neighbors get the help they need.

United, we’re helping our community recover.
